Lock picking is the practice of unlocking a lock by manipulating the components of the lock device without the original key. Although lock-picking can be associated with criminal intent, it is an essential skill for the legitimate profession of locksmithing, and is also pursued by law-abiding citizens as a useful skill to learn, or simply as a hobby.

Lock picking - Wikipedia
A proper lock will require you to set the pins precisely when picking, and consequently, raking around like a madman may work on the cheap stuff, but is sub-optimal with any lock that’s half-decent. My advice to learn how to lock pick like a pro (or in my case, a decently successful amateur) is to simply practise with non-terrible locks.
